From within a course click on Dokeos LIVE. A new window will open.

In the first window click Allow to give Dokeos LIVE access to any microphones and cameras that are integrated or connected to your computer. The second window allows you to test these devices. Dokeos LIVE lets you enjoy high quality audio and HD video.
The left column adjusts audio and video settings for your conference room, and lists the people present. The administrator mode lets you invite which participants you wish to speak during question and answer sessions.

The centre column is a whiteboard on which you can write, annotate, manage and select screen areas, using the left vertical menu.
Complementing your audio or video presentation, this table displays screen-sharing by default. An updated version of Java is required for this service. You can also access PowerPoint and links to YouTube videos.

We recommend PDF format to ensure an identical layout for all your learners.

At the bottom of the frame is a horizontal menu where you can insert a file, navigate between slides, zoom or view the presentation in full screen.

The right column is the chat tool. The first tab is for public chat, while the second allows you to select one or more people for a private discussion.

Wish to invite participants to a conference? The Dokeos suite announcement tool can be used to send invitations to learners. For customers in need of more specific functionality, contact Dokeos about opportunities to integrate WebEx into your portal.
